The proposed land use map and comprehensive plan do not endeavor to identify specific parcels or areas needed to accommodate predicted growth and development. Only detailed site-specific analysis can determine land suitable for development and density levels.